Argument over sister led to brother's death

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A 29-YEAR-OLD man has been found guilty of the murder of a mechanic stabbed in the heart after sticking up for his sister.

The jury returned their verdict at Luton Crown Court yesterday.

Keith Orchard, 29, from Walgrave Drive, Bradwell, will be sentenced today.

Another man, James O'Gorman, 41, of Polruan Place, Fishermead, was cleared of helping Orchard commit the murder.

Orchard, a scaffolder, stabbed 27-year-old Kevin Joyce in front of his work colleagues outside Kipling Motorist Centre in Denbigh Industrial Estate on September 8, 2007.

Mr Joyce, from Margram Crescent, Monkston, died later that day at Milton Keynes Hospital.

Earlier in the case, prosecutor Neil Moore said that Orchard was an obsessive boyfriend of Mr Joyce's sister, Katy Gunn, who received abusive text messages from him when she ended their relationship.

He told the court Mr Joyce warned his sister about going out with him, before Orchard threatened that he would 'put him in a box'.

Miss Gunn asked her brother to get Orchard to leave her alone but the two men ended up arguing on the phone.

Mr Moore said: "It resulted in Mr Orchard travelling to the deceased's place of work, concealing the knife in his tracksuit top with the blade already open in the locked position.

"At the centre there was a verbal argument and without any warning he removed the knife and lunged at the other man's chest.

"We say it was unprovoked and unjustified and effectively Mr Joyce was killed for sticking up for his sister."

Miss Gunn described her ex-lover as 'obsessive, abusive and controlling'.

Five work colleagues and a customer witnessed the attack but did not see a knife.

The lock knife was never found by police.

During police interview Orchard said that Mr Joyce had raised a hammer as if to strike him so he pulled out the knife in self defence, but he did not realise that he had stabbed him.

Mr O'Gorman was cleared of charges of murder, assisting an offender and affray.

Family seek bike crash Samaritan

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

THE family of a woman left dying by the road after a motorcycle crash has launched an appeal to find the Good Samaritan who saved her life.

Sally Weeks lay unconscious by Simpson Road, Walton Park, suffering from life-threatening head injuries.

But a passer-by spotted her and rushed to help.

Alone with an unconscious woman by the edge of a road, and without a mobile phone, the man found Sally's mobile phone and called an ambulance.

On Sunday, after more than three weeks in a coma, mother-of-two Sally opened her eyes for the first time as she fights for life at the JR2 Hospital in Oxfordshire.

Now her family is desperate to thank the man who stopped that night but the police have not provided his details and his identity remains unknown.

Sally's mother, Janice Weeks, 58, said: "We just really want to thank the bloke because without him she wouldn't even be here.

Fighting for life: Sally Weeks

"He stayed with her until an ambulance arrived.

"We would like to personally thank him for saving her life."

The crash occurred when a yellow Honda motorbike collided with a parked BMW on August 23.

Sally, from The Hyde, Netherfield, was a pillion passenger on the bike.

Doctors fought to save her life at Milton Keynes Hospital before she was transferred to the Intensive Care Unit at the JR2.

Janice said: "She's opened her eyes now, which is a move in the right direction.

"At least he saved her life and we didn't lose her that night."

A 28-year-old man has been charged following the incident.

David Keith Redford, from Farthing Grove, Netherfield, has been charged with six counts including driving dangerously, failing to stop at the scene of an accident, and driving a Honda 400cc motorbike without the necessary insurance or licence.

He was remanded in custody last week and the case will be committed to crown court in October.

Bletchley Park's future unveiled

A MULTI-MILLION pound masterplan to repair Bletchley Park has been unveiled.

As previously revealed by this newspaper, the historic buildings and World War Two museum are in desperate need of refurbishment after the Mansion roof and codebreaking huts began to decay.

Now Bletchley Park Trust director Simon Greenish hopes that his vision of the future will help to persuade the Heritage Lottery Fund and potential sponsors to fund the work.

The designs have been drawn up by strategic leisure consultants, Duncan Phillips Associates, who are also responsible for Gullivers Theme Park and Eco Park.

Bletchley Park is currently a hotchpotch of commercial premises, museum exhibitions and decaying huts which were used by Churchill's codebreakers to break German naval codes during the war.

The new designs represent a major restructuring project, with the entire museum converging next to the mansion to create an easier visitor experience.

Bletchley Park boss Simon Greeish

There will be a new museum entrance and the museum site will be pedestrianised but the most anticipated development is the opening of the park grounds and mansion to the public, free of charge.

Spokesman for Bletchley Park Trust, Kelsey Griffin, said: "The site is far from ideal at the moment but that is because we inherited a war time site.

"We don't want our office visitors mixed up with our museum visitors.

"One of the most exciting plans is to open up our beautiful gardens and lake to the public.

"That means much more community involvement here.

"People will be able to wander around here in the summer and it gives them free access to their heritage."

She also praised the response from members of the public after donations totalling £2,500 came flooding in to Bletchley Park's website last week.

The £10million project is still years away from completion though and is reliant on the outcome of the funding bids.

Half of that money will be spent on repairs, the other half will be spent redeveloping the site.

Mr Greenish said: "I do believe this is one of the most important historical sites of the 21st Century.

"It had a significant impact on the outcome of World War Two."

The future of Hut 6, one of the most symbolic buildings of Britain's codebreaking past, was only saved last week, thanks to a £500,000 donation from the Sidney Frank Foundation.

Post office closure protesters look to have lost out in Little Brickhill

Post Office D-Day

THE axe is set to fall on city Post Offices today.

Six branches earmarked for closure across Milton Keynes are due to hear their fate.

MK NEWS understands that Little Brickhill, Weston Underwood, Fenny Stratford and Water Eaton Post Offices are to close.

The decision on the future of branches in Conniburrow and Fishermead has been deferred due to concerns about overloading Crown Walk Post Office, according to information gained as this newspaper went to press last night.

Barry Landsberg, member of Little Brickhill Residents Association which has been fighting to save its local branch, said: "We are very disappointed with the result but not surprised.

"If the Little Brickhill Post Office closes it will have quite a big effect on the community.

"It will lose the shop which is the heart of the area."

Water Eaton ward councillor Jan Lloyd, Mayor of Milton Keynes, who campaigned outside her local branch last month, said: "It is a shame that they are not listening to what people around the area are saying they need.

Mark Lancaster, MP for North East Milton Keynes, said: "The closure of Little Brickhill and Weston Underwood post offices is desperate news for the rural community.

"I only hope that the Government will listen to the arguments put forward about Conniburrow and Fishermead and the current stay of execution will prove to be a permanent one."

Meanwhile, a consultant's report has warned the council that plans to intervene and save some branches could be expensive.

The £30,000 business study, commissioned from Mouchel by Milton Keynes Council, investigated options to continue post office services at four of the branches.

The report looked at four options for each branch, including running the service from its current location, relocating it to council premises close to the current location, or moving it to within another commercial outlet such as a supermarket or public house.

It concluded that none of the four Post Offices will become self-sustaining after three years 'unless an additional noteworthy income stream is found'.

It estimated that an initial fund of £60,000 would be needed to set up any scheme with costs met from the council's budget.

The business case will be considered at Milton Keynes Council's cabinet committee on Tuesday, September 23.

Dead addict dumped in flowers

THE body of a woman who died of a drug overdose was dumped in a flower bed and covered in cardboard by a friend.

Margaret Ali from Wyeness Avenue, Little Brickhill was eventually found, two days later, by a passer-by near Serpentine Court, Windermere Drive, Bletchley on Monday, April 28.

The 51-year-old had just been released from prison and met up with Shane Clarke, a friend of her boyfriend, in Bletchley town centre on Saturday, April 26.

An inquest into her death on Friday heard Mr Clarke's statement to police, it said she asked if he could score some drugs and came back to his flat in Serpentine Court.

The pair began taking heroin at 2pm, and Mr Clarke fell asleep shortly after.

When he woke up three hours later Ms Ali was unresponsive on the sofa and he realised she was dead.

"I sat down in the chair and stared at her," he said.

"I did not know what to do."

Mr Clarke remained in his flat watching TV then decided to carry her body down the stairs and out of the building. He placed her in a flower bed and covered her with a flattened card board box.

Her body was found by a member of the public two days later at around 8.30am, fully dressed with a plastic bag containing her belongings. She was confirmed dead by paramedics.

On the same day Mr Clarke tracked down his solicitor at Milton Keynes Magistrates Court and went to the police station to give a statement.

He said he had spent the last two days thinking that he did not want to be in this situation and knew 'he had done nothing wrong but had done something wrong'.

He was arrested on suspicion of murder, but later released on bail and never charged with that offence.

Dr Nicholas Hunt, home office forensic pathologist, said Ms Ali died of opiate and alcohol intoxication.

She had a puncture mark in the inside of her arm consistent with having used a needle. She had more than the legal driving limit of alcohol and the by-products of heroin in her blood.

The inquest heard she had a long history of alcohol and drug abuse.

Verdict: Died as a result of misadventure due to an overdose.

Smokers fined for littering pavement

THREE smokers have been ordered to pay hundreds of pounds in fines and court costs.

Two of the smokers were caught discarding their butts on the pavement next to ashtrays in public litter bins, during a high-profile local campaign targeting smoking related litter in Queensway, Bletchley, earlier this year.

They had each been issued with a Fixed Penalty Notice of £75 which they failed to pay and as a result the cases were brought to court on Friday, September 12.

Maria Martignetti, of Meriland Court, Bletchley, was fined £75 and ordered to pay £150 costs, after a council enforcement officer and police officer spotted her dropping a cigarette end next to a litter bin outside Martin's newsagents on February 8. Ms Martignetti was not in court on Friday but pleaded guilty by post.

Dannielle Batham, of Whaddon Way, Bletchley, was fined £175 plus £250 costs, after a safer communities co-ordinator spotted her discarding a cigarette end near an ashtray on February 6.

Lucy King of Trafalgar Avenue, Bletchley, was fined £90 plus £400 costs, after she was spotted dropping a cigarette in front of a shop on February 6.

Fun day a mystery to 'forgotten' estate

SIR – I am glad Mark Lancaster enjoyed his day on Saturday at Bradville's fun day, its a pity that the families on Stantonbury were not told about it.

Once again our estate was ignored .

We were told it was put on the notice board, yet all the people i spoke to had no idea where this notice board is nor did they know any thing about the fun day.

So just for the record Stantonbury is next to the v 8 and v7 and has over 500 houses on it.

It is not part of Bradville but a separate estate.

Why can't we get recognised .

We have, after all, been here 36 years .

Hospital parking appeal procedure laughable

SIR – Re 'Change to hospital parking procedure' (last week).

I wouldn't hold your breath at charges being waived.

I had to fork out forty quid for parking legally in on there spaces.

I have a STAFF permit was correctly parked and was ticketed.

Their appeal procedure is, frankly, laughable.

Where Milton Keynes General Hospital gets the idea from that it's the best in country I shudder to think.

Not such a good war for some evacuees

SIR – Regarding 'Memories of a child's war' – MK NEWS August 27.

I was really interested to see the article in MK NEWS a few weeks ago.

I hadn't realised that anyone cared about us evacuees now.

Unfortuntately I had a really traumatic war and have never recovered fully. I did not return to London until 1947.

Now, at 73, I am told by friends to get over it. I only wish I could.

I have joined the Evacuees Reunion Association recently and hope that I will be able to talk to someone in the near future, who understands.

There must be lots of us who didn't have such a good time.

Off the rails

SIR – I sympathise fully with the residents of Archers Wells for the erection of 30ft 'monstrosities' by Network Rail behind the gardens of some their homes.

I share the views of some of the residents that the new pylons may affect the value of the house prices.

It is naive on the part of Network Rail to carry out the erection of new pylons without consulting the local residents who are directly affected by the new pylons.

As a public member of the Network Rail,I am writing to chairman Sir Ian McAllister to see whether he can arrange a meeting as soon as possible with the local Network Rail management and the residents of Archers Wells to resolve the problem.

Memorial eyesore should be removed immediately

The memorial at Furzton

SIR - Re 'Accident shrine desecrated again'.

Having read Jessica Cunniffe's article, and having to live nearby to this 'shrine', I'm curious as to whether Ms Cunniffe lives near to a graveyard.

Make no mistake, that is what this area has become.

Despite correctly noting that this is allowed by neither MK Council or the police, it still remains, and is defended by Ms Cunniffe.

It is an eyesore.

It is a distraction to motorists.

For example, family members of Mr Fordham were recently parked illegally on the slip road to Blackmoor Gate, gathering on the verges, potentially causing further accidents at this spot.

In addition, it indicates to anyone passing that someone has just died at that spot.

It has been a year now!

Surely a year is enough time for his family to arrange an alternative in an authorised graveyard or a memorial in their garden?

This illegal eyesore should be removed immediately.

Biker and biscuits

SIR – I have today attended a 'Be a Better Biker' course organised by Vince Morley, Road Safety Officer at Milton Keynes Road Safety Group.

The day comprised of a few hours in a classroom re-learning the basics, then out on to the roads to have your riding assessed.

Within minutes of the theory starting I found that my knowledge was perhaps not as extensive as I believed.

So I then started to be a bit worried about the ride out. A one-to-one with a police bike instructor/rider – no pressure there then.

A quick 20 minute ride out, then came the assessment of my riding. 'not bad', but a few pointers were given.

Off we went again putting in to practise the tips I was given.

By the end of the day I was (with intercom coaching) reading the road better, riding smoother and even had become even more aware of potential dangers.

I would strongly recommend this course to any Milton Keynes-based rider, £30 is not a great deal to pay even if you only pick one tip.

That might be the one that may save your life.

PS: A big thank you to Bletchley Fire Station as well for supplying free tea, coffee and Kit Kats!

Crossed lines?

SIR – I recently read an article in your paper regarding the improvements to Junction 14 of the M1.

The unnamed officer who said that the improvements were ahead of time may well be right, however anyone who uses it on a regular basis will have noticed one or two slightly puzzling 'improvements'.

(i) A very strangely placed bus lane leading to a set of traffic lights (Junction of H5 and V11 heading in to town) I can't remember the last bus I followed down that road.Or the last traffic jam I sat in coming in to town.

(ii) The total lack of 'keep clear' markings on all entrances to the remarked, part resurfaced V11, H5 and V11 V6 Junctions.

I would like to pose these questions to the Milton Keynes Highways Department.

Why is there now a specific bus lane incorporated into a junction that is never congested coming in to the city centre?

Why have the 'keep clear' markings not been repainted onto the road surface? As now the vast majority of people driving out of the city on the Portway now think itis OK to block anyone off who wishes to cross the Portway, or turn right towards the city centre.

Every day during rush hour the entrance is now blocked off.

Please can we have these markings repainted or paint simple box junction to keep the crossing traffic flowing?

Peter, Stony Stratford

Cell block X

SIR – Once again Woodhill prison has been put through the mill in your latest story 'Woeful Woodhill'.

I have to agree with governor Luke Serjeant when he says that issues such as overcrowding are out of his control.

I find it refreshing that he recognises that a prison is not a holiday camp and should not be luxurious but should be decent. This is a place for people that have done wrong after all.

Shame about Monday

SIR – I thought it was fantastic that MK was able to play host to the Tour of Britain cycling race last week.

It is not very often that the city is part of a major sporting event, it was just a shame that it took place on a Monday morning when many people could not see it.

Those who did were clearly having a good time including a number of schoolchildren who had obviously been allowed out to witness the spectacle. Lets have more of this kind of thing.

Bring back 1970s Dial-a-Ride says transport boffin

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A TRANSPORT expert has called for planners to have more 'vision' for the future of Milton Keynes.

Professor Stephen Potter, the Open University's transport guru and an international expert on sustainable transport, said the city needs more of the innovation it is famous for to tackle the problems ahead.

He spoke on an expert panel answering residents' questions on transport at an event based on the format of BBC's Question Time.

Transport Question Time, held at the Open University on Thursday, September 11 and chaired by OU director of communications Derek Prior, was organised by the Citizens' Advisory Group on Transport (CAGoT), which has been set up to look at the future of the city's transport system.

The panel also included Isobel McCall, leader of Milton Keynes Council; James Wheway, director of integrated transport planning for a Milton Keynes business; and Theo Chalmers from Urban Eden, which aims to promote a sustainable extension of the original master plan for Milton Keynes.

Around 80 people attended to grill the panel including residents, parish councillors and members of MK Forum, Friends of the Earth and Milton Keynes Green Party.

Much of the debate turned to the need to improve the frequency and reliability of bus services across the city, particularly as Milton Keynes grows and pressure on the transport system increases.

The OU's Professor Potter suggests planners should have another look at the old 'Dial-a-Ride' bus service

Prof Potter said it is difficult to operate a decent bus service in Milton Keynes as it is spread over a large area.

"Maybe we should go for something more radical", he said.

"We need a system that is more suitable for the type of place Milton Keynes is, rather than shoe horn a town which really doesn't work well with the conventional system. We had a reputation that tailored off in recent years of being an innovative city; maybe we need to invest in something new."

While dismissing a tram line as too expensive, he suggested that planners take another look at a 'Dial-a-Ride' personal transport system, which was trialled during the 70s.

"We have got a hidden transport crisis and we need to be looking towards the future at the same time as keeping what is good about Milton Keynes" he added.

Cllr McCall denied accusations that the council is trying to force people out of their cars and into buses by making driving difficult in Milton Keynes.

"That is not our intention," she said. "It is about providing a realistic alternative."

CAGoT, which comprises 22 randomly selected residents from across Milton Keynes, will now consider the responses.

The group will continue meeting during the next two months and submit its findings to the council at the end of October.

Mechanic gouged man's eyes out with his fingers

BY ROB GIBSON

A MECHANIC has been sentenced to nine years in prison after stabbing a man and gouging out his eyes.

Benjamin Gibson, 22, called his mother after the attack and said: "Sorry I think I've killed someone.

"I put my fingers in his eyes and pulled his eyes out."

Twenty-one-year-old Christopher Craig is now permanently blind after sustaining extensive injuries to both eyes and stab wounds to his neck and body.

Gibson, from New Bradwell, was sentenced at Luton Crown Court on Monday after pleading guilty to causing grievous bodily harm with intent.

His family wept as Judge Richard Foster, sentencing Gibson, said: "You carried out a frenzied attack on Christopher Craig. "As a result he is blind in both eyes.

"That man will never see again."

The attack took place in the early hours of Friday, April 18, when Gibson returned to his home on Permayne, New Bradwell, after a night out drinking with his friends.

Benjamin Gibson: Blinded Christopher Craig during a fight

The court heard that Gibson was planning simply to go to bed until an argument began with Mr Craig, who was staying there with Gibson's brother's ex-girlfriend, Keeley Duggan.

Ms Duggan and her young daughter witnessed the horrific events that followed.

Prosecutor Paul Wakerley said that Mr Craig smashed a glass into Gibson's face before Gibson went downstairs and returned with a pair of scissors and a knife.

Ms Duggan said she saw Gibson stabbing at Mr Craig with the scissors and her daughter shouted: "Ben's killed Chris."

The police were called and found Mr Craig lying in a foetal position on the bedroom floor, bleeding from wounds to his neck and chest.

His eyes had been gouged.

Gibson was arrested outside a neighbour's house and taken to hospital before being charged at Milton Keynes Police Station.

Jonathan Goodman, defending, said: "Benjamin Gibson is full of genuine and true remorse for his actions.

"He snapped and inflicted permanent injury to Mr Craig in a few moments that can never be undone."

"He desperately wishes he could turn back time but he can't."

Freshly ground coffee IS to be sniffed at

Wine tasting has become a popular social event among Brits but now one entrepreneur is attempting to start a new tasting trend in Milton Keynes. MK NEWS reporter ROB GIBSON took the coffee test

Mocha mission: 'Hopefully with my personal experience and some knowledge, I'll slowly introduce fresh coffee into homes and offices', says Ryk Melck

WHILE coffee tasting might not have the same ring to it as wine tasting, Ryk Melck is adamant that it can become just as popular.

The South African has just launched his new business, Ryk's Cafe, which offers taste experiences or 'coffee parties' at your home or workplace.

At first I was a little unsure about the idea but I am partial to an afternoon coffee and I warmed to the concept as I read through the list of exotic coffees on offer.

There is much greater variety than I had imagined and like wine, different coffees vary in acidity, aroma, body and flavour.

Good coffees can taste caramelly, chocolatey, earthy, fruity, mellow, nutty, spicy, sweet and can even have an aftertaste resembling mature wine.

Bad coffees can taste bitter, bland, carbony, grassy, harsh, muddy, turpeny or rubbery.

From the moment he arrived at our office armed with a black holdall and coffee machine, Ryk's infectious passion for his subject was evident.

As several of my colleagues curiously watched Ryk set up a series of bowls, cups and coffee-filled bags in the kitchen, he told us his story.

"About 10 years ago I met a girl who is now my wife," he said.

"Colleen was my little angel sent from above and she introduced my taste buds to the regular taste of fresh coffee."

Until that point, Ryk had only drunk instant coffee and would only make fresh coffee occasionally.

Like many he found instant coffee much simpler but his tastes would soon change.

As he poured the different coffees into bowls, Ryk said: "There was no turning back.

"My taste buds were learning to enjoy the taste of freshly ground coffee beans.

"Colleen and I started a small coffee bar selling fresh coffee and coffee beans from a local farmer. We got married and sold the business and continued to make fresh coffee for ourselves, guests and family."

His story paused while we began the first stage of our coffee tasting experience - the sniffing session.

Ryk told us to cup our hands over each bowl of coffee and inhale the fumes through the top.

We sampled a Kenya peaberry, mocha, Fairtrade Colombian, Rainforest Alliance from El Salvador, and a strong French after dinner coffee. Some were subtle, others were more pungent, but our resident coffee connoisseur, Sam Thompson, was impressed.

Ryk said: "Hopefully with my personal experience and some knowledge, I'll slowly introduce fresh coffee into homes and offices.

"There is just something about the aroma of fresh coffee."

The aroma of some of the coffees was a little too strong for my liking but I was already looking forward to testing my taste buds.

The Kenya peaberry is described as a weak but fruity coffee and Ryk sees it as the ideal introduction for coffee amateurs like myself.

"A lot of people get turned off coffee because they have had a bad coffee, but you need to try other types," Ryk said.

"You might just have tried a very harsh coffee."

Even Sam is not sure about the Rainforest Alliance, which Ryk admits is 'not everyone's flavour', before warning us that the next sniff, the after dinner, 'will hit you very hard'.

The French love extra dark coffee but one whiff was enough to make me feel light headed.

As Ryk talked about expanding his range to include the expensive Blue Mountain coffee beans and launching his own coffee club, I was feeling apprehensive about tasting the stronger brands.

Ryk taught us the art of 'cupping', which differs from wine tasting because you need to brew the coffee first rather than tasting it straight away. The coffee has been mixed with hot water, but not too hot, and is not filtered before tasting.

Ryk demonstrated by quickly slurping the coffee into his mouth with from a spoon and we followed with our own abysmal attempts.

By slurping the coffee rapidly (and noisily) into your mouth, you ensure that it reaches all parts of your tongue to hit all the taste buds and maximise the different tastes.

After spitting, a swill of warm water then helps to cleanse the pallate before moving to the next bean.

The peaberry and the mocha suited my tastes but others in the office preferred the stronger coffees, particularly the Colombian.

Ryk said: "It's about getting people to sample different types of coffee.

"And getting them to enjoy it.

"I want to bring coffees into the homes of Milton Keynes."

The session definitely stimulated debate and conversation at MK NEWS and there could be a new breed of coffee addicts in the city after Ryk spreads his message.

Firefighters mop up after rescuing two people from the third floor of a house in Fishermead

Two rescued from third floor blaze

Smoke alarms fitted in house had no batteries

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

FIREFIGHTERS rescued two people from the top floor of a three-storey house after a fire broke out the weekend.

Three crews were called to the property in Penryn Avenue, Fishermead, at 2pm on Saturday after the blaze started in the kitchen.

Four adults had already managed to leave the house by the front door, but a man and a woman were unable to get down the stairs because of thick smoke.

Firefighters, from Broughton, Great Holm and Newport Pagnell, used a 13.5-metre ladder to lead them to safety out of a bedroom window.

Ambulance staff treated them at the scene.

Six firefighters entered the building wearing breathing apparatus to carry out a thorough search and put out the fire.

Although the house had two smoke alarms, neither had a battery in it.

The fire, which started in a pan on the cooker, happened just two days before the relaunch of a national campaign to remind people to carry out a weekly check that their smoke alarms are working.

Watch manager Bob Breading, from Broughton Fire Station, said: "The two people had a very lucky escape as their exit was blocked off.

"The hallway and stairs were so smoke-logged that they couldn't make their way down the stairs.

"They were hanging out of the window when we arrived.

"Had the fire developed more quickly, they could quite easily have been overcome by hot fire gases."

He added: "I would like to praise the professional excellence of the crews, who worked quickly and thoroughly to prevent it from becoming an even more serious incident."

The month-long smoke alarm campaign, called Pull Your Finger Out, relaunches today with a series of TV advertisements featuring Julie Walters.

It shows the horrific aftermath of a fire in the home with a burnt out kitchen providing the backdrop.

Buckinghamshire Fire & Rescue Service offers free home fire risk checks to identify potential fire risks and advise what to do to reduce or prevent them.

25th birthday present for Living Archive

A LIVING history is to be available on the web thanks to a five figure grant from a lottery fund.

Residents of Milton Keynes, Wolverton and Bletchley will soon be able to dip into the day-to-day history of their communities online thanks to the Living Archive project.

Volunteers are to catalogue and digitise the organisation's collection of material gathered over the years from the three towns, using a grant of £35,100 by the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF).

The project will come to fruition next year as the Wolverton-based Living Archive celebrates its 25th anniversary.

The organisation was founded as an antidote to the assertion that 'new towns have no history' by recording, archiving and celebrating the unique history of residents' lives and sense of place.

The local history records have been kept in various formats, including audio tapes that are at risk of deterioration.

The project is also supported by MK Council, which has given a grant of £10,000 towards the creation of educational resources.

Five per cent hike on off-peak rail fares

RAIL passengers in Milton Keynes face further fare increases.

Train operator London Midland has put up all off-peak fares by five per cent following a 4.8 per cent increase on all fares last January.

Gerry Doherty, TSSA's general secretary, said: " This is passengers being ripped off in the interests of boosting profits."

However, the train operator argues that increases are standard practice.

Alex Hynes, Commercial Director for London Midland, said: "We know that fare increases are never popular, but in most cases ours are equivalent to paying less than a pound more.

"We are funding a massive investment programme, which includes £243 million in new fleets of trains and £11.5 million on improving our stations, much of which will be spent within the next two years."

Jill Hope of the MK Rail Users group said: "It's reaching the stage where an off-peak fare is really expensive. Say there are two people going, paying a fiver to park, it's starting to get to the stage where it's cheaper to use your car."

MK converts to Islam run at two per week

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

Muslim converts: Bilal, Rasheed, Mohamed, Daniel and Leila at the Islamic centre site in Coffee Hall

MORE and more young people in Milton Keynes are converting to Islam.

That is according to Milton Keynes Muslim Association (MKMA) which says it now has at least two Shahada – people vowing to commit to the faith - each month.

The increasing number of converts, which includes people from all backgrounds but is mainly men in their 20s, is adding to MKMA's 500-strong membership.

Former Denbigh School student Daniel Tilton, 22, now known as Rasheed, converted to the religion a year ago, though he 'already felt like a Muslim'.

"I had Muslim friends and non-Muslim friends in school. I started to go down the wrong path doing things I thought were pleasurable," he said.

"At the time my Muslim friends weren't doing that, they were doing their own thing."

Then the college student, who works at John Lewis, was given a Koran.

"It touched me, it just made sense. That's all it took. The Koran is so powerful. All you have to do is read the first chapter."

Bilal David, 26, who changed his name from Andrew having been raised as a Catholic, said: "A lot of questions I had, the Bible wasn't able to answer. I needed go out there and look for the truth. Islam's definitely changed my outlook."

Teacher Leila Reeb, 27, from Emerson Valley says she's never had anything but positive responses to being a white woman wearing a headscarf.

She said: "I never thought I'd be the sort of person who'd pray. Now it feels completely natural."

Her husband Daniel has been Muslim for just over two years.

"I was an atheist and agnostic. I had a Muslim girlfriend who suggested I convert. I thought why would I want to be a terrorist?!

"But then she gave me an English translation of the Koran. I thought: 'this makes sense'. Before that I was just a floater, living with no purpose."

In order to convert a person must say the Shahada, a declaration of faith. If they mean it then they become Muslim.

MKMA secretary Mohamed Suleman said: "The number of converts to Islam worldwide is increasing exponentially and Milton Keynes certainly fits that trend.

"In today's society there is something very reassuring and appealing about Islam and that is why the majority of the people becoming Muslim at our Friday prayers and other events are in their early-to-mid 20s. MKMA is an appealing forum for most new Muslims because of its diversity of membership."

Stadium gig for pop idol hopeful

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A YOUNG singer is hoping to make a name for herself at a talent contest which has already propelled a group from Milton Keynes to fame.

Fourteen-year-old Melissa Lucas, from Crownhill, will compete in the regional finals of Idol 2008 next month after coming up against 10,000 other hopefuls.

The teenager can usually be found locked away in the recording studio at Oakgrove School, where she is studying GCSE music.

But while she works hard towards her exams Melissa also aims to launch a solo career, starting with the talent contest which helped Milton Keynes' Bkay & Kazz make their name.

Melissa said: "Singing is my passion and I just love performing.

"I really want my music to go far and I want to make it. I'm in the recording studio all the time and I'm getting more and more confident."

Her first test will come at stadiummk on October 10, when she will sing Keisha White's hit The Weakness in Me during the half-time break between MK Dons and Carlisle.

Melissa has performed around the city as part of RnB group MjeliK but has decided that she can make it alone.

Speaking about the Year 10 student, headteacher Peter Barnes said: "It is one of the responsibilities of the school to nurture every student;s individual talent and when we heard Melissa sing we knew we had a future potential star on our hands.

"It has been our pleasure to support her every way within our means."

Collision yards from home killed cabbie

A 24-YEAR-OLD father of two was killed in a collision yards from his home in Stony Stratford.

Yasar Mehmood from Magdalen Close, died after his black Vauxhall Vectra collided with a white VW Transporter van on Queen Eleanor Street just before 8.30am on Monday, September 8.

An inquest, opened on Monday, heard he was taken to John Radcliffe Hospital in Oxford by air ambulance but later died in the operating theatre as a result of his injuries.

He was a taxi driver but was not working at the time of the collision.

His six-year-old son, who was a passenger in the Vectra, was uninjured.

The inquest was adjourned until December.

Mr Hussain, his second cousin, told MK NEWS: "He was a taxi driver in Milton Keynes for eight years.

"He was a very hard working man, honest, and he had just got his British citizenship about six months ago."

He added that he was a family man, dedicated to his son and three-year-old daughter.

His body has been flown to Pakistan, where he was born.

A 25-year-old man from Leighton Buzzard was arrested on suspicion of causing death by dangerous driving and has been released on bail until November.

Shh – new library opens at school

A STATE-OF-THE-ART library and lecture theatre has opened at Leon School and Sports College.

The £1.3 million Arts Centre, which houses a new library and a lecture hall can also be used as a 75 seat cinema, theatre and drama space.

It will be open to the whole community, offering residents in the school's catchment area a wide range of extra services on their doorstep.

Facilities include an internet cafe, access to books, CDs and DVDs, and the opportunity to watch the latest film releases. The design of the centre uses all the latest technology, including thumb recognition to access the library.

Milton Keynes Council beat off stiff competition from authorities around the country to secure funding for the project through the government's Targeted Capital Bid Programme.

A total of £12million was awarded to the council, which is also funding major improvements to Lord Grey, Drayton Park Primary and a complete replacement of Water Hall Primary.

As well as the library and cinema, the investment has also seen improvements made to the school reception area including the installation of a huge street map of the community on the floor which was developed by artist Wendy Briggs and pupils at the school. The street map theme has also extended to art on the library walls.

> This project has been three years in the visioning, two years in the planning and one year in the building
> – Leon School and Sports College head teacher Simon Viccars

Head teacher Simon Viccars, said: "This project has been three years in the visioning, two years in the planning and one year in the building and I am delighted to be opening the doors! We have every reason to be proud of this facility. It is educationally unique and extends the opportunities available to raise attainment, particularly in literacy, not just within the school, but to all that want to take advantage of it in the community, any age. I would like to pay tribute to Milton Keynes Council for turning the school's vision for this facility into a successful government funding bid, and also to the architects and contractors whose hard work has made our building a reality."

Three former Leon pupils who have all given something back to the MK community officially opened the Arts Centre last Thursday.

Mark Dolling, who is now the Assistant Director for Planning and Development at MK Council; Lee Scriven, a local author and MK Dons devotee; and Albert Bernard, a former Acting Sergeant for The Lakes, now in charge of ethnic recruiting at Thames Valley Police.

"All our friends are so impressed with our new windows and doors!" Everyone at Kingston, were so patient and understanding of our concerns and needs. We are confident in the knowledge that Kingston is there to help if the need arises."

School open evening on silver screen

HUNDREDS of parents and children are expected to attend Cineworld for the screening of UK's first 'virtual' school tour.

The Milton Keynes Academy is showing an animated film of the £27m new school which is currently under construction at Leadenhall.

Principal Lorna Caldicott said: "It's certainly a unique way to have a school open evening,"

"The fact that the school is not built yet proved to be a bit of a headache.

"While all the other secondary schools in Milton Keynes are holding tours for prospective pupils, we obviously couldn't invite people to a building site so we had to come up with an alternative.

"We got together with the architects, designers and IT experts to create a 3D film of the entire school so visitors can see the building and facilities inside; it's quite amazing.

"As an enterprising, forward thinking school we think this is a great way to show parents and pupils what we have to offer."

The computer generated tour is being shown to Year 6 pupils and parents at 5.30pm at Xscape next Thursday. Visitors can even tuck into free popcorn.

The Academy is due to open in September 2009 and has space for 1,500 students aged 11-18. It will boast ofacilities including a Roman-style outdoor performance arena with tiered seating, film and TV recording studios, al fresco dining and all-weather sports facilities.

The new state-of-the art school will also house a high-tech enterprise hub that will play a major role in delivering the academy's specialism of business and enterprise.

Meanwhile a huge sixth form centre offering an extensive range of subjects will cater for up to 350 students.

International Baccalaureate status on the agenda for Hazeley School

The International Baccalaureate group from Hazeley School

HAZELEY School has its sights set firmly on the future.

The school is a candidate school for the International Baccalaureate (IB) Diploma Programme and is pursuing authorisation as an IB World School in February 2009.

IB schools share a common philosophy – a commitment to high quality, challenging, international education.

Candidate status gives the school the opportunity to offer a sixth form provision unmatched in the county with AS/A2 and vocational courses running alongside the IB Diploma Programme.

All Sixth Form pupils will also participate in Community, Action, Service (CAS) the aim of which is to develop a student's appreciation of their role in society by undertaking activities and projects within the school and local community.

Eight teachers have already completed training as IB teachers more will take training in summer 2009.

The first intake for sixth form will begin in September 2009, and it will also benefit from brand new sixth form facilities planned in the school's expansion.

Open Evenings will be held in the autumn term with an IB Education Evening planned for Monday, December 1 and Sixth Form Open Evenings on Wednesday, September 24 and Wednesday, December 3.

Headteacher Iain Denning said: "We are very proud to be awarded candidate status as this gives us the opportunity to further strengthen our Sixth Form offer.

"This follows the whole ethos of The Hazeley School which is to ensure that children reach their full potential by offering the environment, support and opportunities to do so"

The Hazeley School opened in September 2005 with Year 7 and 8 pupils and is on course to reach a capacity of 1,500 11-18 pupils by 2010.

Study locally and save cash

STUDENTS who attend the new University Centre Milton Keynes (UCMK) could save an incredible £12,000 in just two years.

And with the credit crunch causing purse strings to tighten, university chiefs believe it will be another incentive for young people to study towards a degree locally.

On average, student living expenses alone are a hefty £6,000 per annum which includes renting a room near the university, utility bills, food and travel expenses for home trips.

"We know student debt is a major issue when it comes to taking a university degree," admits Dr Keith Straughan, the new Dean of UCMK. By studying at UCMK some of that financial pressure is taken away because students can remain living at home."

Matthew Hull, 20, of Springfield, Milton Keynes, is one local student who has signed up to study at UCMK. He says the financial aspect was a major consideration when deciding to enter higher education.

"I always wanted to go to university but the costs of rent and living away from home put me off. I kept reading about the huge debts students were running up to get a degree and further themselves. This way I get to stay at home, study for a degree in MK, be near my friends and save money."

UCMK will be based in 200 Silbury Boulevard, Central Milton Keynes, and will open to students this month, offering a wide variety of degree-level courses.

At present UCMK works in partnership with other universities to deliver foundation degrees. This means that students can study towards their degree locally for two years.

Anti-bullying hero up for ITV award

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A 20-YEAR-OLD anti-bullying campaigner has been nominated for a national 'teacher of the year award'.

Alex Holmes, from Stony Stratford, has been spreading his 'Heads High' campaign across schools in Milton Keynes and this week learned that he has been nominated for an ITV Teacher of the Year Award.

In June, ITV News invited viewers to nominate a teacher or specialist working in schools in the area. Alex has been shortlisted as one of the four finalists for the Anglia region.

Viewers were asked to highlight the achievements of teachers who have made an outstanding contribution to the lives of their pupils with a unique and inspirational approach to their work.

Alex's work setting up anti-bullying initiatives has been highly commended, particularly at Kingsbrook College in Deanshanger and The Radcliffe School in Wolverton.

Both schools are now supporting the nomination.

Alex said: "They're fantastic schools with great staff who are not only keen to make sure every pupil achieves their potential, but also to make sure every student feels safe all the time.

Campaigner Alex Holmes with students from Kingsbrook College

"Both have had huge success with this through the Anti-Bullying initiatives.

"The students now lead this work and really do make a tremendous difference to their schools and communities.

"The young people of Milton Keynes have inspired me and in turn I hope I have inspired them."

Ryan Hairsine, 14, from Radcliffe School, said: "I think just about everyone knows Alex.

"He's always around and if anyone has a problem, they go straight to him.

"We've already had so many great opportunities thanks to him and as a team really enjoy the work we get to do with Alex."

An expert judging panel will now select a finalist from each region and they will be invited to attend a glittering Pride of Britain ceremony in London.

Cash winners prove that recycling pays

A big, big thank you to all MK recyclers

Winners: Mr and Mrs Allen from Newport Pagnell

WHO says recycling doesn't pay? Here in Milton Keynes it most certainly does.

Anyone putting out pink recycling sacks and blue boxes stands a chance of winning one of two weekly £100 prizes in the council's Cash for Trash incentive scheme.

Recent research by the national Waste & Resources Action Programme (WRAP) showed that one of the reasons why residents chose not to recycle is because they don't feel personally rewarded for their efforts.

Milton Keynes Council rewards its residents for helping increase the amount it recycles.

Thanks to you, it is recycling 36 per cent of household waste – this is above the national average and government targets.

All winners are chosen at random and if the selected household has pink recycling sacks or a blue glass box on their property boundary by 7am on collection day, they win £100.

But if your house is chosen and there's no recycling outside, or non-recyclable items are found in your pink sack, they will move on to your nearest recycling neighbour – so make sure you don't miss out.

So if there's a knock on your door early in the morning on your waste collection day, don't be alarmed, it could be members of the council's recycling team offering you cash.

The prize money is donated by Community Waste Ltd, which runs the council's recycling facility in Wolverton, and now also by Cory Environmental, which collects your refuse for the council.

Pictured are some of our recent lucky winners. We've been out and about in Two Mile Ash, Springfield, Fishermead, Conniburrow, Tattenhoe, Walnut Tree, Newport Pagnell, Clifton Reynes, Willen, Eagelstone, Little Brickhill, Netherfield and Bletchley. So you never know when we could be visiting you!

■ To find out more about the Cash for Trash scheme, see previous winners and to check out the rules, visit www.milton-keynes.gov.uk/cashfortrash

Man died after picking up virus working abroad

Wife woken in early hours by her husband who was making 'strange noises'

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A MAN died suddenly in his sleep after catching a virus while working abroad, an inquest has heard.

Keith John Drummond, 38, from High Grove Hill, Great Holm was found dead in bed on Thursday, May 15.

An inquest held last Wednesday, September 10 heard that he had returned from a 10-day trip to Germany two days earlier.

He and his wife Wendy, who have a six-year-old son, were going through a separation and slept in different rooms.

On Wednesday, May 14 Mr Drummond went to bed as normal but at 5am the next morning his wife was woken by strange noises coming from his room.

She found him breathing heavily and crying out.

"It was like he was dreaming," she said.

"I shook his shoulder and he let out a breath.

"I thought he had just gone back to sleep."

At 7am she checked on him again as he had not risen to go to work.

He was unresponsive so the emergency services were called. He was confirmed dead at the scene shortly after.

Consultant pathologist Dr K Y Lwin said he died of acute heart failure caused by a viral infection attacking the heart muscle.

He was otherwise healthy and had not been drinking alcohol.

Dr Mohammed Duwji, Mr Drummond's general practitioner said to die from a virus like this is extremely rare.

"If you have a normal viral infection that affects the nose you have other ways of coping, but if your heart drops in capacity... it is central to function," he explained.

Mr Drummond's employer, Julia Simper from Direct Flight Ltd, based at Cranfield Airport, said he had been 'out of sorts' during the work trip.

"He complained of flu-like symptoms and mild diarrhoea," she said.

Mr Drummond was a flights operation co-ordinator for the company, which runs flights for the Met Office.

He had previously worked as an air traffic controller for Monarch Airlines and in the Royal Air Force for ten years.

Verdict: died of natural causes.

Young artist goes back to her roots

A YOUNG artist is holding her first exhibition in her home city.

Claire Smith, 24, from Sorrel Drive, Newport Pagnell, is displaying 33 pieces of art in the Church of Christ the Cornerstone in Central Milton Keynes.

The collection of expressive paintings and drawings has been produced over the last five years and focus on people in their natural surroundings.

Claire, right, finished studying art at Lancaster University a year ago and now works with adults with learning disabilities at Tower Drive day care centre in Neath Hill.

"I decided that Milton Keynes was the place to have my first exhibition as I am going back to my roots, back to where my art experience began," she said.

"I didn't realise how strongly influenced I was by people until I got them together."

Claire studied art A-level at Stantonbury Campus and from then it has continued to help her through difficult times, including the death of her father while she was at university.

"Instinct told me that art was my passion, my future," she said. "When times were really hard in my teenage years, art liberated me.

"Although university was able to help me develop my skills, it was my father's death, which really brought my art to a whole new level.

"Art was the only way that I could deal with the emotions that were felt as the result of my father's death."

Her exhibition, called A Showcase of an Apprentice is now open and runs until October 1.

Save 50% with LPG Fuel!

All LPG conversions have a storage tank, usually in the form of a doughnut tank fitted in the spare wheel well or a cylinder tank fitted in the boot. LPG is fed through a pipe as a liquid, to the engine compartment and then transformed into gas by a vaporiser.

A switch is fitted usually on the dashboard., this switch lets you know how much LPG you are carrying and also allows you to switch over from LPG to petrol.

An LPG conversion is the most up to date emission technology available , not only a cleaner solution, but a cheaper one too! Did you know;

- The Queen has four LPG cars and her own refuelling station in the Royal Mews.
- LPG vehicles can reduce decibels by as much as 50% compared to diesel vehicles In the UK at the end of 1998 there were approximately 3,500 vehicles running on LPG. At the end of last year 2004) there were approximately 117,000, proving that LPG is becoming the alternative fuel of the future.
- There are currently over 1473 UK LPG refuelling stations LPG is currently around 50% cheaper that petrol!

Better public transport is vital to ensure that people have easier access to jobs, leisure and health facilities and other services.

The Milton Keynes Bus Strategy aims to increase transport choice by developing the bus network, in partnership between the Council, the bus operators and others to improve services for existing bus users and to give an alternative to the private car.

Leisure 'passports' price set to go up

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

PEOPLE on low income in Milton Keynes are to pay more for leisure.

The cabinet at Milton Keynes council has decided to increase the price of joining its Passport to Leisure scheme and introduce an annual renewal fee.

The scheme provides discounted access to leisure facilities to people on benefits, pensioners and students.

Cardholders currently pay a one-off joining fee of £5, with additional family members paying £3 and dependants £1.

The joining fee is to increase to £7.50 and an annual renewal fee of £5 will be introduced.

The officer's report, presented to cabinet on Tuesday, September 2 recommended the changes to make the scheme 'financially sustainable' as it would otherwise cost the council £13,500 a year.

The scheme is 'putting unnecessary pressure on the service that the council provides within Milton Keynes'.

It adds that out of ten similar schemes run nationwide no other offers free renewals and that generating more income would allow the council to promote the programme more effectively and increase the number of members.

Cabinet member for leisure, Cllr Vanessa McPake, said the council has been charging the same amount for five years.

The new charges will be effective from January 2009.

City centre jewel tray thief caught on CCTV

THIS thief was caught on CCTV stealing a tray of jewellery in the city centre.

The man took the tray from a jewellery stand on Midsummer Arcade, in Central Milton Keynes.

It contained 66 silver ladies rings, each one with an amber setting, between half-an-inch to one inch in length.

All the rings have a hallmark '95' inside them.

The incident occurred at about 6pm on Tuesday, August 5.

Police released this image taken from CCTV footage, which shows the man they want to speak to.

The offender is black, in his late teens and was wearing a distinctive grey hooded top, which had a blue square on the front, jeans and trainers.

If anyone recognises this man or has been offered a ladies silver ring matching the description, contact PC James Harper on 08458 505505 or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

BACK PAIN?

Painkillers and a sheet of exercises are not your only options

A large trial funded by the Medical Research Council in 1990 concluded that CHIROPRACTIC TREATMENT was 30% more effective than hospital outpatient management, mainly for patients with chronic or severe lower back pain.

A follow up trial in 1995 confirmed patients with lower back pain treated by Chiropractors derived more benefit and long term satisfaction than those treated by hospitals.

MUSIC REVIEWS

DISCO LIES

Moby

IT must be the in-thing these days to have whoops and hollers stamped all over your latest single. I blame Richard Ashcroft and his mates myself, they started it.

For some reason, the whooping on this song is a lot quieter than it is on Love Is Noise, but it's far more distracting, at least it is for me at any rate.

That's a bit of a shame too, because really good Moby singles don't roll around that often, so the poor bloke needs all the help he can get.

This one would've been up there, but for the unnecessary vocal display in the background; he's over-egged the pudding slightly here, and at the same time he's also done a bit more than he needed to with this song.

It's the sort of track that would've been danceable about 15 years ago, but now sounds like a slightly dated pop tune, a bit like discovering an M People single in the attic and remembering that you actually danced to it when it came out – of course, you wouldn't dream of it now, but back then they'd yet to release Search For The Hero so they were cooler.

This single sounds like Moby trying to remember the sort of music he used to do before he released Play and nearly getting there.

Like I said, it'd be better without the whoops, but you can't have everything can you?

WHAT A WONDERFUL WORLD

Axwell and Bob Sinclar featuring Ron Carroll

'SO come on, let's all get together and let's sing this song forever' warbles the singer, possibly overestimating his chances of being able to physically carry out his intention, but at least you can't fault him for effort.

I must admit, when I saw the title I was half-dreading a really awful dance remake of the Louis Armstrong classic – in my opinion one of the few songs that's completely untouchable – but if you can get the likes of Chris De Burgh and Gene Kelly retooled and refitted for the 21st Century, that means somebody out there is probably mulling it over.

Instead, what we get is a fairly cheerful tune and some bloke dispensing pearls of wisdom about what a wonderful world we'd have if we all just got along and if nothing ever went wrong.

IMPATIENCE

We Are Scientists

OH look, another decent We Are Scientists single. It almost doesn't really matter what I say about it, because it'll be out of the charts as soon as its released.

It stomps along for just over three minutes and it's got a good video, but you only have to look at what happened to their last single (in at 37 and straight out again) to realise that this one's chances of hanging around are pretty damned slim.

That's a bit harsh on We Are Scientists you know, after all if we can keep buying Rockstar week after week and the local radio stations can keep playing year-old songs so often you'd be mistaken for thinking they hadn't been released yet then surely there must be room for the occasional new song in the chart.

I mean, seriously, Rockstar? I gave that a positive review last NOVEMBER. And who on earth watches adverts for furniture shops and thinks to themselves 'I really must buy that song they're singing along to'?

Sometimes I just don't understand the way the world works.

FILM REVIEW: EDEN LAKE

SIR – I was on the number five bus recently with my girlfriend on a thrilling trip to the city centre.

As we were getting on, some young lads started making comments and whistling in a none too subtle way.

Now my natural instinct in such a situation would be to give them the evil eye and a few choice comments suggesting that they might want to be quiet and give the aggressive sexual harassment a miss.

However, on taking a closer look at them, I realized that, firstly, I was vastly out numbered and secondly, they had some kind of maniac dog with them.

Finally, and most significantly, you just can't tell abusive groups of kids to shut up any more without fear of being stabbed or generally bashed to a pulp.

The reason I mention this is that my true tale of urban woe is not unlike the fictional one told in Eden Lake.

A couple on a holiday break to the countryside find themselves harassed by a gang of less than charming young local lads. The bloke of the couple in question (as opposed to getting off the number five bus early to escape a dodgy situation) is angry enough to bite back, and harassment escalates into seriously bloody and brutal conflict.

Eden Lake deals with exactly what I experienced on that bus, a fear of aggressive kids that we have all seen creeping onto the news over the last few years.

It's effective, shocking and brutal and leaves an intentionally nasty taste in the mouth.

I couldn't help wondering whether a film like this gives people kicks watching exactly the kind of brutality it's trying to criticise.

What bothered me even more – what kind of country are we living in that this might be reflecting reality?

But then that's exactly the point of the film, it's not fun to watch, but it will give you plenty to chat about in the pub afterwards.

Just be careful getting that number five bus home though OK?

WEST SIDE STORY
Until Saturday
AS the latest casualty of gang warfare on London's mean streets is laid to rest by his grieving family, disorganised knife crime comes to Milton Keynes. Thankfully, the fighting is taking place on stage. And there's not a hoodie in sight.
When West Side Story opened on Broadway in 1957 it received lost out to The Music Man in the battle for that year's Tonys.
Half a century later West Side Story has got its own back. The Music Man is largely forgotten.
The strength of this show lies in the age-old human tragedy at its core. Young men, with too much testosterone, need their energies channelling into something positive. Or else. The ticking hormone time bombs are Polish Catholics, the Jets, and Puerto Rican Sharks.
Simmering in the heat of a New York summer the two gangs settle their differences in the only way they know how. But passions boil when Maria falls for Tony.

CHEFS'SECRETS

Lickin' sticky little fingers

I THINK that a lot of the time children tend to get stuck on one thing they really like and then will not try other things.

Then they don't like food they have not tried.

I think it is important to develop young children's palates. After all you are going to be sharing meals with them for the next 18 years and who wants to dine with fussy eaters?

I am not going to get on my soapbox, but the fat and sugar laden products available to us are all quite scary. Generally they are full of E-numbers and monosodium glutamate, which is a flavour enhancer, and too much salt.

It doesn't have to be that way and we can give our children fried food, in moderation, especially if we make it ourselves – and it does not have to be difficult.

All chefs use a technique where we pane, which simple means dipped in bread crumbs and egg.

It's very easy and you can pane anything.

I have chosen chicken cause kids love bread crumbed chicken.

It is also great for fish and you can breadcrumb sliced courgette, aubergine and any chunky vegetable which will contribute to the five-a-day thing.

It also helps if children help to make it.

Another great thing to teach children is pastry.

It generally leads to having something sweet, is great fun to make and is very rewarding for children to see there efforts come to fruition.

You are also in control of the amount of sugar and can ensure that children are eating fresh fruit which is very important.

I have an amazingly easy pastry recipe that, once rolled out, can be topped with any fruit and a little sugar that makes perfect little fruit tarts.

Take time to cook with the kids. Its great fun and once you taste homemade chicken fingers you won't want the take away stuff again.

Happy cooking

EMMA

CRISPY CHICKEN FINGERS

Serves four

INGREDIENTS
60g plain flour
Salt and pepper if you want
3 Eggs
100g fresh breadcrumbs
50g finely grated Parmesan cheese
Chopped Parsley
4 chicken breasts cut into strips or nuggets
2 tablespoons olive oil
25g butter

METHOD
1 Put the flour, salt a pepper in a bowl
2 Beat the eggs in another
3 Put the parmesan, Breadcrumbs and any seasoning in a third
4 Dip each piece of chicken in the flour, then the egg and lastly the breadcrumbs
5 Chill in the fridge
6 Heat olive oil and butter in a pan, medium heat, add chicken and cook for about three minutes on each side or until golden brown
5 You may need more oil depending on the coating of bread crumbs

QUICK AND EASY FLAKY PASTRY

Quick flaky pastry is really a cheat's version – the secret is grating partly frozen butter, then mixing it with flour (so no boring rubbing in). It really does involve the minimum of skill but, at the same time, produces great results

INGREDIENTS
4 oz (110 g) butter frozen
6 oz (175 g) plain flour
Pinch of salt
A drop of cold water

METHOD
1 Sift the flour and salt into a large bowl.
2 Take the butter out of the freezer and using the coarse side of a grater placed in the bowl over the flour, grate the butter, dipping the edge of the butter on to the flour several times to make it easier to grate.

What you will end up with is a large pile of grated butter sitting in the middle of the flour.
3 Now take a palette knife and start to distribute the gratings into the flour – don't use your hands yet, just keep trying to coat all the pieces of fat with flour.
4 Now sprinkle two tablespoons of cold water all over, continue to use the palette knife to bring the whole thing together, and finish off using your hands.
5 If you need a bit more moisture, that's fine – just remember that the dough should come together in such a way that it leaves the bowl fairly clean, with no bits of loose butter or flour anywhere.
6 Wrap in cling film and chill for 30 minutes before using.
7 Roll out on a lightly floured surface and cut to desired shapes
8 Top with any fruit and dust with a little sugar. Bake for 35-40 minutes at 180 degrees.

"I wanted to write to you in order to congratulate you and your staff upon your service I have received. The sale of this property is the first time I have been involved with an estate agent. I must say that Matt Cawood and Gareth Walker at your Milton Keynes branch have been excellent. I have now found the ideal bungalow through yourselves and cannot wait to move in. I would recommend you to my friends.

Taiwanese minister in city health visit

THE Deputy Minister from Taiwan's Department of Health visited Milton Keynes last week to gain an understanding of how the city's telecare and telehealth services support older and vulnerable people to live independently in their homes.

Tzay-Jinn Chen was among 12 high-level representatives from the department who were shown how Milton Keynes Council and Milton Keynes Primary Care Trust have been working together since 2005 providing the service which improves residents' quality of life.

David Moore, corporate director for Neighbourhood Services, said: "It has been an enormous privilege for us to a host the delegation from Taiwan's Department of Health and to show how our telecare and telehealth services are making a difference in the community."

The visitors were given a tour of the Community Alarm Service's control centre and a telecare flat, which is used for training and demonstrations.

The service was recently praised in a Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) report.

They were also shown how the telehealth service addresses the growing number of residents with long-term chronic conditions, which help cut avoidable hospital admissions and reduce the length of time Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD) patients spend in hospital.

In addition the service provides effective support once a patient is discharged, reducing the chances of readmission.

There are now plans to expand the service and buy new telehealth equipment to monitor patients with other long-term conditions.

The Taiwanese delegation included representatives from the Bureau of Nursing and Health Services, and senior personnel from three hospitals.

During their five-day visit the delegates visited key locations including the London Borough of Newham; the Centre for Usable Home Technology at the University of York; St Mary's Hospital in London; Tunstall Healthcare Group and Milton Keynes Council.

Milton Keynes was chosen by Tunstall as a good example of how telecare and telehealth services have been an integral part of the health and social care system.

Russian's knock-down home deal handled by MK lawyers

A MILTON Keynes legal firm was involved in the recent successful sale of a £5million mansion on the prestigious Sandbanks peninsula to a Russian business tycoon.

The Milton Keynes offices of Franklins Solicitors LLP handled the legal aspects of the sale which made national headlines when it was disclosed that the buyer planned to knock down the five-year-old property to build his own multi-million-pound home.

Sandbanks, a peninsula in Poole Harbour, Dorset, is the fourth most expensive place in the world to buy real estate, but the Russian buyer has ordered his newly purchased property demolished.

After the bulldozers have finished, he plans to build a new home at the stunning location and take advantage of the private beach and helicopter landing rights. But the new house will only add one more bedroom.

Lee Holmes, who handled the conveyancing on behalf of the seller for Franklins: "The house was only completed in 2002 and Franklins also handled the purchase three years ago.

"The property featured a stunning interior and an impressive blue-roofed American colonial-style exterior.

"Demolition is already under way and I understand the buyer has commissioned an ultra-modern new home with a sea-facing glass facade to take its place.

"I gather it's the most expensive plot of land ever sold on the Sandbanks peninsula."

MKBUSINESSBRIEFS

Pay rise plea all about timing

ALMOST half of PAs and secretaries do not feel comfortable in approaching their boss for a pay rise as they find their superiors intimidating.

The recent online poll by office support recruiter Crone Corkill found that because of this, most would rather wait and see if they were offered a salary increase than request one.

Thirty one per cent of respondents said that they would sometimes be willing to approach their boss regarding the issue, but that this would depend on his or her workload and stress level at the time.

Just under a fifth said that they do not need to ask because they are often rewarded for their hard work.

Tracy Durrant, managing director at Crone Corkill said: "It is surprising that so many PAs said that they would not approach their boss considering they work so closely with them.

"Many also said they would have to judge their boss's workload first so they obviously know them well enough to know when is a good time, and when isn't.

"Discussing workplace issues is important and office support staff should see it as vital n building a strong working relationship."

BECOME A MULTI-SKILLED ENERGY ASSESSOR

By law trained Energy Assessors will need to carry out an estimated 3 million Energy Assessments in the year from this October - 200,000 commercial buildings, 1.8 million homes being rented and 1.1 million being sold (2.1m in normal house sale years).

Applicants are therefore required to train now - no previous surveying experience is required - at our London, Bristol, Birmingham and Manchester training centres which are approved by the Government-appointed Awarding Body for the Built Environment. The subsidised training is taken in separately bookable 1-week modules usually around current commitments and you qualify as a multi-skilled Domestic and Commercial Energy Assessor, Flood Risk Assessor and Home Inspector.

Homes now being sold already require Assessments with average fees of £70 being paid to our Assessors – fees for the 1.8m rented homes from October are expected to be similar. Fees for currently optional Home Inspections average £250 - commercial Assessments are expected to be higher. Up to 15 domestic Assessments or 6 commercial Assessments or Home Inspections are estimated to be carried out in a week, subject to size of properties and supply. As well as thousands of Assessors carrying out Energy Assessments, 7500 Home Inspectors will be needed upon Government making Home Inspections compulsory - less than a thousand are currently certified.

Regardless of the 'credit crunch' these new 'green' laws and 3 million Assessments are creating a rapidly expanding new industry which you could join, subject to interview and Aptitude test. So apply now for subsidised training and to start a new career carrying out this environmentally important work with potential multiple income stream opportunities.

Honda Civic Type-R

HONDA GAINS TYPE APPROVAL

In the Civic Type-R, Honda has produced yet another showstopper. Andy Enright reports

We've become accustomed to some pretty uncompromising stuff from Honda and the second generation Civic Type-R is the latest in a long line of performance sector class leaders. As well as its predecessor, the latest car follows in the footsteps of well loved Accord and Integra Type-R variants, the S2000, the NSX and at the wheel of one, enthusiasts might even hark right back to the original 1963 Honda S cars, the S360 and S500. All have one thing in common: a mile-high rev limit with an engine note that's the closest you'll come to a racing car on the road.

Like its predecessor, this Type R is powered by Honda's naturally-aspirated, high-revving 2.0-litre DOHC i-VTEC engine but the unit has been significantly reworked to improve responsiveness using a new balancer shaft and drive-by-wire throttle control. VTEC variable valve timing and VTC variable inlet camshaft technology continue to underpin the engine structure. Further development of the Type R unit means more useable torque, as the switch to high-lift, long duration valve timing (the cam change) now takes place at a lower 5,200rpm, and continues all the way to 8,000rpm. So that screaming, high rpm VTEC range is broader and more accessible.

To mark the entry to this 'power band' a clever i-VTEC indicator just to the right of the digital speedometer is illuminated once the revs rise above 5,200rpm. Maximum power is now 201PS, reached at 8,000rpm (the old car managed 200PS at 7,400rpm) and this Type-R should feel more responsive generally, while improved aerodynamics ensure that it cuts through the air more cleanly. Slightly lower gearing compensates for a small increase in kerb weight. Sixty from rest occupies just 6.6 seconds on the way to 146mph.

"The latest Type-R is unashamedly extreme"

That puts this Honda in pole position to combat the big hitters in the GTi hot hatch sector, principally the Renaultsport Clio 197, Vauxhall's Astra VXR and Ford's Focus ST. Against these rivals, the Honda offers better build quality, a stronger product image and likely lower depreciation. Plus it's one of the few hot hatches that you wouldn't bat an eyelid flogging round a circuit for a weekend's trackday fun.

The suspension is based on the Civic Type-S, already fine-tuned for sharper chassis dynamics, and the Type R takes those modifications to the next level. Like the Type S, its rear track is 20mm wider than that of the 5-door model, but otherwise damper, bush and spring characteristics are all unique to Type R. Broad 225/40 ZR18 tyres provide added grip, while a 15mm reduction in ride height further reduces body roll. Firmer steering, a quicker ratio and stiffer steering box mountings all provide pin-sharp responses to steering wheel input, while the fuel tank's central location beneath the cabin floor helps to lower the centre of gravity and reduces the body's inertia moment.

The Type R also builds on the Civic's body structure - one of the stiffest in the C-sector - and that rigidity plays a key role in the responsive chassis dynamics. Extra strengthening has been introduced into the floor cross member just ahead of the central fuel tank, around the upper front suspension mountings, while the lower cross member (just ahead of the engine bay) provides greater rigidity. The overall result is a more predictable chassis, with levels of responsiveness and stability that are some of the best in class. At the same time, the damper settings deliver enhanced ride comfort, so the Type R is easier to use in all conditions and on all surfaces.

The styling is another major plus. Seven-spoke 18-inch alloy wheels are fitted as standard and - helped by the car's low ride height - these tuck neatly under the body coloured arches. The deep front spoiler incorporates a larger air intake to channel air to the induction system, as well as triangular foglamps. There's no missing the distinct body-coloured tailgate rear spoiler, which follows the kick-up line from the rear quarter windows, and provides added down-force. It helps if you like mesh because there's a whole lot of it. Black mesh inserts sit in the front grille and the triangular cutouts where the fog lights would normally sit. The rear end also features mesh in the underbumper section.

The profile of the car looks similar to the five-door and it's only after a second glance that you realise that the razor-thin rear door shutline and concealed handle are absent. If there's a body shape that better integrates three and five door body styles than this latest Civic, I've yet to see it. Inside, it's all about the driving experience. Front seats are racing-style buckets with large black Alcantara bolsters and red stitching, red fabric seat cushions and backs. The seat bench in the back repeats the same colour combination.

The effective Dual Zone, two tier dash - common to other Civic models - also features but with red illuminated dials set off by gun-metal effect switch panels on either side of the central display. The driver grips a black, leather-covered steering wheel with red stitching and central 'H' logo, while the gear shift knob with aluminium-finish has a black boot with red stitching. And, to make each Type R even more exclusive, a plaque engraved with the car's unique serial number is placed just ahead of the gear lever.

Also available is a fully-equipped GT version, with additional features such as cruise control, dual zone air conditioning, fog lights, automatic lights and wipers and curtain SRS bags. A voice-activated, state-of-the-art navigation system is offered as an option.

Overall? Well, this Type-R is a worthy successor to the original - and that's saying something. It's a car you must consider if you're shopping for the ultimate hot hatch. Many will see this car as being exactly that.

Save money servicing your car

VW, AUDI, SEAT, SKODA

Our customers come from all over the country because of our good name and personal service where they can speak to the engineer working on their car. Our work is second to none and they still save up to 50% on main dealer prices

Our workshop is not housed behind a flashy reception area where you hand your keys over and your car disappears not to be seen again until you pay your bill.

We run an open workshop where the customer is shown what's wrong with their car and you can discuss the solutions with the engineer.

Our workshop carry's the latest VAG approved equipment including

- VAG approved computer diagnostics
- VAG approved four wheel alignment
- Tyre fitting and computerised balancing
- Air conditioning services
- VAG trained technicians
- Reception with broadband access

We offer a full range of tuning services including engine tuning and track day preparation.

Mark Wright steps up for the Dons' penalty only to see Oldham's veteran goalie Mark Crossley make a magnificent save

Penalty miss, point missed

OLDHAM ATHLETIC 2

ROBERTO Di Matteo says his side need to start reflecting their performances in their results following their 2-0 defeat to Oldham Athletic.

Losing to the unbeaten League One leaders is nothing to be ashamed of but the Dons' boss knows the scoreline does not reflect the chances his team had to take a point or even win the game at Boundary Park.

And Di Matteo admitted Mark Crossley's save from Mark Wright's penalty with fifteen minutes on the clock may have proved the turning point.

"You need to score those penalties," he said, "you need to level the score and then the game is back in your hands."

Arguably the Dons could have been awarded a second spot-kick later in the first half when Sam Baldock was brought down on the very edge of the box by Sean Gregan.

The Dons were left to chase the game after just eight minutes when veteran striker Lee Hughes showed he's not lost his classy touch when he lobbed one over Willy Gueret from 20-yards following Jude Stirling's mistake in trying to collect Andy Liddell's long cross forward.

But from then on Lactics did very little on their home ground as the Dons began to impose their play on the game.

It was then that the Dons won a penalty for Gregan's handball but Wright, the Dons' top scorer last year with 15, placed his spot-kick low to the left and experienced keeper Crossley was able to deny him the leveller.

Luck was out as Baldock was ruled off side after slotting Aaron Wilbraham's ball into the net, then Wilbraham sliced over from three-yards.

Lactics could have extended their lead after the break but Willy Gueret pulled of a world class save from Lewis Alessandra and Jude Stirling cleared an effort from Chris Taylor on the line.

Wilbraham was further frustrated by Crossley who stopped his strike and header from breaching the goal line.

With the clock counting down Di Matteo went for all or nothing as he brought on Jemal Johnson for Carl Regan late in the game.

But the Dons got caught short at the back in injury time as Mark Allott fired in the second to give the scoreline a deceiving look.

Di Matteo said: "It's been very disappointing we started to play after we conceded a goal again. We need to start changing the mentality that we only start reacting after we concede.

"I'm not happy with losing a game and coming away thinking we had control and now we don't have anything.

"We need to see it in the result."

DEFEAT was not enough to dampen Mike Dove's spirits.

The Dons' academy boss watched his side suffer a 2-0 loss to Ipswich Town, with both goals coming in the final fifteen minutes.

But Dove remains upbeat about his young side and believes they are on the right tracks, even if after two Academy Premier League games there are no points on the board.

He said: "Despite the defeat, the boys put in a performance I was proud of.

"The players were a bit down about the loss but, from my point of view, we've got a small squad of just 12 apprentices and I'm not going to start getting wrapped up in results.

"At the end of the day, the objective is to develop players and when I see the improvements we made at Ipswich I know we're going to get there.

"In the first half particularly we played very well against Ipswich's diamond-shaped midfield, keeping our concentration and playing some good football.

"We need to show a little more composure, particularly in the final third, but overall I was chuffed to bits."

TICKETS for the Dons' trip to Colchester United on Saturday are now on sale at the stadiummk box office.

The Dons have received an initial allocation of 614 away tickets for the East Anglian derby.

Supporters can buy their tickets in person from the box office or on 010908 622900.

Family Section: Adult - £20; Seniors - £13; Ages 16-18 - £13; Ages 11-15 - £8; Ages 10 and under - £5.

Block 4: Adult - £22; Seniors - £15; under 18 - £15.

Advanced tickets for away fans will be on sale until 5pm on Friday, September 19 thereafter they can be bought on the day from Colchester United.

FORMER Dons boss Martin Allen has been appointed the new manager of Cheltenham Town.

Allen, 43, has taken over at Whaddon Road following the departure of Keith Downing.

He left the Dons in May 2007 days after their play-off semi-final defeat to Shrewsbury Town to manage Leicester City, but he left the role three months later.

Allen will bring his side to stadiummk, his first visit to the Dons' ground as a manager, on Saturday, October 25.

PREVIEW

COLCHESTER
League One
Saturday, September 20
Weston Homes Community Stadium
KO 3pm

THE Dons have their second away game on the bounce this weekend.

Colchester United have played two games in their newly built stadium and are some way off making it a fortress after picking up just two points.

The U's have struggled to re-adapt to life in League One following the relegation from the Championship.

Both sides head into the match on the back of 2-0 defeats.

The U's have a tougher job of finding the back of the net as they will be without Steve Gillespie who was shown a straight red for a two footed-challenge.

The man who scored the first ever hat-trick for the Dons will be battling against their defence.

Last summer Clive Platt signed for Colchester in what was a record fee at the time and has scored eight goals in 50 appearances for them.

Out of the six previous meetings, two of which have been in the League Cup, the Dons have the better record.

They have recorded three wins, lost two and drawn one to the U's.

Donal McDermott, on loan at the Dons from Manchester City, made his debut against Oldham and could be knocking on the door for a start.

New laws see Bletchley start season with fine win

LOCAL RUGBY

SOUTH WEST 2 EAST

BLETCHLEY'S new season is up and running with victory over Trowbridge.

Flyhalf Phil Harman kicked ten points to help his side to a 25-17 win on the opening day of the new rugby season.

Harman had Bletchley leading by six points early on until Towbridge clawed back three points 20 minutes in.

Bletchley could have edged further ahead with Harman slicing a kick wide and a try being disallowed for an earlier penalty against them.

Bletchley persisted and drove back into the Trowbridge half and some excellent passing between prop Tom Hannell and hooker Mark Sharp resulted in left wing Matt Nobes crossing the line for an unconverted try and an 11-3 lead at half time.

At the restart Bletchley showed they've got to grips with the new laws as a driving maul allowed them to play and the ball found it's way to Paul Evans who ran through to score, Harman followed up with the conversion.

Despite leading 18-3 Bletchley made life hard for themselves as they leaked two tries to Trowbridge which narrowed the gap to one point.

Yet Bletchley's Mark Sharpe had the final say with a late try to win the game.

NEWLEY promoted Olney got off to the best possible start with a 15-12 win over Sailsbury.

It was Sailsbury who crossed the line first but a poor challenge by one of their players saw them reduced to 14 men for ten minutes.

So Olney grabbed their chance with Will Edwards replying, a missed conversion meant the sides were level at 5-5 at the break.

Edwards edged Olney ahead with a penalty but it was short lived as Sailsbury's centre found a gap to seal a converted try.

However, Edwards was on his toes as he scored under the posts then converted his try to seal an opening day win.

SOUTHERN COUNTIES NORTH

IT was also a winning start for Milton Keynes who edged out Grove in a ten try thriller.

MK overturned Grove's nine point lead at half-time to win the game 31-25.

Andy White's three conversions proved the difference between the sides as Grove failed to convert any of their tries.

Dan Person, Dan Walker, Joe Gorman, Phil Powell and debutant Neal Williams all crossed the line for MK.

ICE HOCKEY

GOOD things come in twos for MK Lightning.

Two new players and two victories over Telford Tigers.

A summer of change meant ice hockey fans had their first chance to see the new look Lightning in action at the weekend.

Juniors Glen Trivett and Ross Green were selected from trials to ice for Lightning this season.

Both are products of the Lightning junior system and currently play for the under-18s side and MK Thunder.

The duo featured at the weekend for Nick Poole's side.

And on their showings they will be wanting the League to start as soon as possible.

On Saturday Lightning fired from all cylinders as the condemned Telford to an 8-2 defeat.

Finnish forward Andre Smulter impressed the home fans with two goals as did James Archer and James Pease, both bagging one each.

Then there were the old favourites who also joined in with the fun.

Michael Wales' brace will have him in confident mood, Ales Parez and Matt Towalski also found the back of the net.

At one stage Telford's chances were looking extremely bleak as they fell 5-0 behind.

But Marek Hornak and Scott Williams managed to pull two back and add a little dignity to the score line.

The returning fixture was not so easy for Lightning as Telford put up a good fight.

While the opening period remained scoreless it was only a matter of time before Lightning got themselves ahead.

The man to put Lightning ahead was former Telford favourite Gary Clarke, who managed to squeeze the puck beyond the goalie and soon after Lightning added a second midway through the second period.

Telford presented their own danger in front of goal yet the could not manage to get past the ever reliable Barry Hollyhead, who once played for the Tigers, and the goalie was able to maintain his clean sheet.

■ LIGHTNING host Peterborough on Saturday, face-off is at 7pm. The return on Sunday starts at 5.30pm.

PRE-SEASON started with two wins and one narrow defeat for MK Lions at the weekend.

While they may have only been three warm up games fans have been given a taster of what they can expect from the new-look Lions side.

The third game in three days was the one that mattered to the Lions as they took on Guildford Heat in the Cup Winners' Cup and it was the BBL Trophy winners who came out on top in the first leg.

Despite opening the scoring through Yorick Williams the Lions saw the home side hit a quick nine points, by the time Williams hit his first three pointer the Lions were back in front 9-11.

At the end of the first quarter every Lions player who started the game were on the score sheet but Heat led 29-27.

Guildford extended their lead with four three pointers until nine in the quarter from Youngblood and good drives from Terrell Brown allowed the Lions to pull back the advantage.

The last score of the second went to Heat, yet it was a slim 53-51 advantage they carried through.

Liam Cort and Brown hit a pair of threes to start the third as the Lions regained the lead, New continued like clock work at the free throw line before Williams hit seven in a row to extend the advantage to 63-66.

But once again Heat were strong in the final minutes and a 6-2 finish saw them nip in front 69-68 at the end of the third quarter.

The teams exchanged baskets in the fourth before new Lions signings Tommie Eddie and Eddie Morrison hit a pair of free throws to tie the game at 86-86.

Heat then hit a three and Lions missed a drive and followed up with a foul which sent their hosts to the line where they increased their lead with 28 seconds remaining.

Eddie had the last say with a crucial three at the buzzer to claw back the deficit to two points.

■ THE second-leg takes place on this Friday at Bletchley Leisure Centre. Tip-off is at 7.30pm.

Blistered rear wets prove problem for Coulthard

MOTOR RACING

RED Bull Racing took a point at the weekend but they will be delighted to have seen sister team Toro Rosso claim a stunning victory.

The Italian team, whose car was made in Milton Keynes, won their first ever Grand Prix in Monza as Sebastian Vettel became the youngest ever driver at 21 to win a race.

And Red Bull saw a glimpse of the future as the first-time winning German will switch to their car next season as David Coulthard bows out.

When Coulthard, who finished 16th in Italy, announced his retirement in July it looked like a big loss for Red Bull however, on Vettel's showing they may have found a new star.

While his podium may have shown promise for Red Bull it also highlighted the issues the team are having with the Renault engine.

Essentially Toro Rosso and Red Bull are the same cars, but the difference is the first are powered by Ferrari.

Although Mark Webber started third on the grid, two behind Vettel, he managed an eighth place finish following a spin.

Fabrice Lom, Renault's principal engineer, said: "A difficult race for us. We were third on the gird, but in these conditions Mark nearly went off. We finished one point, so it's better than nothing but very, frustrating.

"In the end the pace was there – we were very quick."

Even more frustrating is the lack of success Coulthard is having in his RB4. The Scotsman has not finished among the points since his third place podium in Canada eight races ago.

Coulthard who slipped three positions from his starting 13th place, admitted it was not his day.

He said: "I burned out the rear tyres early so I had blisters on the rear wets.

"Coming into the pitstop we put on the inters, but again seemed to burn out the rear tyres early, so I kept tiptoeing through the corners and kept losing places."

SPORTSSHORTS

Stony still afloat

A VITAL 41 run victory may have saved Stony Stratford's status in the Northamptonshire Premier Cricket League.

Before their meeting with Desborough Town, Stony were rooted at the foot of the table with just two wins to their name. But brilliant bowling performances by Simon Myatt (3-10) and Stuart Brandom (3-16) helped Stony register a third victory which saw them move to ninth, and 13 points away from relegation threatened Irthlingborough Town.

Stony's batting display would have given them little hope as they were dismissed for 112, Paul West top-scoring with 31.

However, only three players managed to hit double figures for Desborough and Stony were able to breath a sigh of relief as victory was declared.

SOON-TO-BE Red Bull Racing driver Sebastian Vettel, diving for sister car Toro Rosso, follows the safety car at the start of the Italian Grand Prix. Vettel, 21, takes over David Coulthard's seat at Red Bull next season and impressed his impending employers with a stunning maiden victory in Monza. He led throughout in the rain soaked race as the remaining drivers, including Red Bull's Mark Webber, who started in third but finished eighth, played catch up with little success. See page 83

Celtic boss shows interest in Dons front man Baldock

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

SAM Baldock appears to have caught the eye of a Scotsman but an Italian says he's going nowhere.

Celtic manager Gordon Strachan is reportedly interested in the 19-year-old striker and is considering tabling a bid when the transfer window re-opens in January.

However, it was news to boss Roberto Di Matteo yesterday who says Baldock will remain at the club, especially as the youngster has only recently signed a new deal with the club until June 2010.

"I haven't spoken to him about it, I didn't even know about it to be honest.

"We're very happy that we tied him (Baldock) to the club for the long term."

He also believes Baldock, who has started eight games this season and scored three goals, is not yet the finished article.

"I think it's early days to judge him. Let's be patient and give him time to develop."

Baldock has the option of another year on his new deal at the Dons but a move to the current Scottish Premier League champions may prove too hard to turn down for the budding player.

Sam Baldock

If, as Di Matteo hopes, the speculation turns out to be nothing, Baldock could have a fight on his hands for the number one striker's spot.

Yesterday the Dons had former Watford forward Gifton Noel-Williams on trial with the squad.

He was recently released by Spanish side Elche CF and is now a free agent, which would allow the Dons to sign him up, if he impresses, outside the transfer window.

Wild-card Poulter out to prove his worth

ON Friday Europe begin their defence of the Ryder Cup and Woburn professional Ian Poulter is part of the 12-strong team out to beat theUnited States.

Poulter will want to prove his worth on the course after his wild card selection proved controversial.

A number of high figure golfers have hit out at Nick Faldo's decision to include Poulter over the experience of Colin Montgomerie. and Darren Clarke.

The European team, lead by Faldo, touched down on Monday and have already been practising at Valhalla.

With Faldo still to announce his pairings for the competition he kept everyone guessing yesterday as the side practised in threes.

A confident Faldo said: "I've got a couple of ideas up my sleeve. I'm more than happy."

Poulter teamed up with Robert Karlsson and fellow wild card selection Paul Casey.

The Ryder Cup finishes on Sunday.
